JECO eNews for July 2013

"It's not easy being a farmer, it's not easy being a Jew and it's even harder being a Yiddish-speaking Jewish farmer" says Yisroel Bass. Watch the video and read about this interesting Jewish agricultural experiment in Goshen, New York.

Calendar

Friday, 26 July, Schools Tree Day

Around 2500 school children take part in Schools Tree Day every year. They learn to plant tree seedlings and care for them as they grow. Read more at <http://treeday.planetark.org/schools/>.

Sunday, 28 July, 2:45 - 4:45 pm, JECO Film Afternoon at the Lamm Library

Visit the Lamm Library, see a screening of the film "The Economics of Happiness", join in the discussion after the film and have afternoon tea. Great way to spend a winter's afternoon. See the trailer for this well made and interesting film at <http://www.theeconomicsofhappiness.org/>.

Sunday, 28 July, National Tree Day

Find an event and plant a tree. There are over 60 events taking place close to your shtetl. Read more at <http://treeday.planetark.org/about/>.

News

Global beef production has been over taken by aquaculture production

Global aquaculture production, which includes farmed fish and seafood, exceeds global beef production by 7 million tonnes. In 2015 it is predicted that more fish and shellfish will be harvested from fish farms than caught in the wild. Why California is ahead of Australia in clean energy goals

Both California and Australia have emission reduction targets, a carbon price, renewable energy targets, strong rooftop solar programs, and energy efficiency measures, but California is way ahead of Australia. The California legislature set ambitious goals and let the engineers figure out how to achieve them.
