JECO eNews for September 2014

This month brings another High Holidays, another opportunity to make amends and make changes in our lives which will contribute to a better world. As one of your New Year's resolutions JECO recommends committing to a more sustainable lifestyle. Within the context of your own life situation what are the next steps you can take to reduce your personal environmental impact, encourage greater environmental awareness / action in your immediate community, and contribute to national / global attempts to combat climate change.

For inspiration on what you can do to make a difference a good place to start is Shavu'a Tov, JECO's Jewish guide to living more sustainably (<http://www.jeco.org.au/wp-content/uploads/2011/12/Shavua-Tov.pdf>) and ARRCC's Jewish Climate Action Kit (<http://www.arrcc.org.au/climate-action-kits>). Note, both these booklets are available in hard copy in JECO's 'Jewish-environmentalism' collection at the Lamm Jewish Library of Australia (<http://makorlibrary.softlinkhosting.com.au/liberty3/libraryHome.do>).

The greatest environmental-economic-humanitarian threats facing the world are a result of climate change but what can we as individuals do? On Sunday September 21st, world leaders will meet for the UN's emergency Climate Change Summit in New York. On this day Australians will be gathering at events large and small across the country, calling for meaningful action on climate change. And on the same day, ordinary citizens all over the world will come together for a global day of action and climate solidarity. Details:
